

Alnmouth Arts

The weekend's Arts Festival was another great success with many positive comments from both visitors and exhibitors, with many of them already asking how to apply for next year - the Festival's 10th Anniversary.

This year we were pleased to welcome the BBC who came to make a programme for their "See Hear" television series for deaf people. It will feature Rothbury's Sarah O'Dowd who is profoundly deaf and who was exhibiting her work for the first time in more than 10 years.

We'll let you know when the programme will be broadcast.

First Trail Guide to be sold?

Poster Artist, Jane, with husband Keith

Helen and Julia and a "Clarty Plodge"

Cat and a sample of just one day's customers!

Basia's 'ArtAllure' and jewellery

Viv with Ernie, Eric and Tommy

Festival 2013

When we started planning this year's festival back in September we wanted to ensure that there was 'something for everyone' and the very positive feedback we have had suggests we have achieved this. But it would not have been possible without the support and help from the people of Alnmouth and the surrounding villages. So many thanks to everyone who has helped make the weekend so successful.

We will soon start planning for next year and we would welcome yet more volunteers to help, particularly during the week prior to the Festival and the weekend itself. Next year will be the Festival's 10th Anniversary and takes place on the 21 and 22 June.

So if you can spare some time we would be delighted to hear from you.

Bill Bourne
Chair, Alnmouth Arts Festival Committee

Artists of the future?

Children from Hipsburn First School having fun

Warkworth School get ready to sing

Bridget proudly points out her painting

Music in the park

The BBC have finished and Sarah is relieved!